

DECLINES

To Call Off the Coal Strike as Requested By President.

Mitchell Has Written to Mr. Roosevelt to That Effect -- Trying to Break the Coal Combine-- Day's News of the Great Strike.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 8.—President Mitchell returned from Buffalo at 3 o'clock this morning. He has written a letter to President Roosevelt in which he states that he cannot accede to the President's proposition in regard to calling off the strike but Mr. Mitchell says that while he has outlined his reasons for his decision he does not think it proper to make them public until the President has received the letter.

RAILWAY PRESIDENTS MEET.
New York, Oct. 8.—Presidents of coal roads held a meeting here yesterday, but beyond the fact that the operators are still unyielding would tell nothing of what occurred.

The report that President Baer had communicated with Mitchell was denied. President Olyphant said that the operators expected good results from the calling off of the troops.

After the conference President Baer of the Philadelphia Reading called on J. P. Morgan at his office.

Mr. Morgan told Mr. Baer bluntly that coal must be mined in large quantities now that Governor Stone had done what the operators have been demanding for a long time—given them enough military protection to guarantee a peaceful operation of miners if they could get the men to work them. In other words, Mr. Baer was told that he must "make good." Those close to Mr. Morgan say that he is badly worried about the coal strike, and wants to see it brought to an end, even if the operators have to abandon their ironclad stand of no concessions.

Those present at the conference were: President George F. Baer, of the Philadelphia & Reading, President Thomas P. Fowler of the New York, Ontario & Western, President R. M. Olyphant of the Delaware & Hudson company, President W. H. Truesdale of the Lackawanna, President Alfred Walters of the Lehigh Valley, President Underwood of the Erie and Irving A. Sturgis of Coxie Bros. & Co.

DIVORCE
Obtained by Mr. Pritchett Who a Few Years Ago Married His First Cousin.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 8.—Lorin J. Pritchett, who a few years ago astonished local and Louisville social circles by going to the latter mentioned city with his beautiful first cousin, Calla N. Pritchett, and marrying her, has obtained a divorce on the grounds of desertion.

The decree comes as an anti-climax to one of the most romantic love affairs in local annals. The bride was the acknowledged belle of Maplewood, a fashionable suburb of St. Louis, and no one suspected the infatuation of the first cousins until their marriage was announced. For a time they were perfectly happy. Then an estrangement was noted by the departure of the bride, with her baby girl, to Chicago. She notified her husband she would never return to him. At present she is living in California.

the parade. Hanselmann Commandery was headed by the famous drill corps, and with 100 men in line made a striking impression when escorted to the hotel yesterday afternoon by Reed Commandery. It was accompanied by the First Regiment band of 10 pieces. Hanselmann will take part in the exhibition drill. No competitive drill will be held this year.

Hanselmann will be the escort of Wm. B. Melish of Cincinnati, Grand Captain General of the United States and Past Grand Commander of Ohio. The Commandery is in charge of Lowell F. Hobart, Eminent Commander, A. R. Roll, Captain General, and John W. Paul, Recorder.

Well-drilled commanderies are here also from Washington C. H. Marietta, Findlay, Sidney, Hamilton, Warren, Circleville, Uhrichsville, Van Wert, Kenton, Lima, Troy Sandusky, Akron, Urbana, Athens and many other cities.

COLLISION
Between Fast Express Trains on Pennsylvania—One Killed and Twelve Hurt.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 8.—A collision occurred at Menlo Park today between two Pennsylvania express trains. One train stopped at a hot-box and the other train running sixty miles per hour cut the rear passenger car in two and John Seltatz, a passenger, was killed and twelve others were hurt. Ten of the injured were taken to Newark, and two injured trainmen were left here.

NO LIVES LOST
And the Damage Done by the Fire in Texas is Less Than $10,000.

Beaumont, Tex. Oct. 8.—Fire started in the Hogg-Swayne syndicate tract at 10:30 last night and at midnight it was reported that a score of people had been burned. Daylight this morning, however, proved that the story of the loss of life is false. No lives were lost and the damage done will not reach $100,000.

Bragg Transferred.
Washington, Oct. 7.—General Bragg, consul general at Havana has been transferred to the post of consul general at Hong Kong, China, taking the place of William A. Rublee, who is transferred to Havana. This change is due to protest made by Cuban government on account of a letter Bragg wrote to his wife and which afterwards became public in which he said "You might as well try to make a whistle out of a pig's tail as make anything out of these Latin races."

FLAG FLIES
Daughters of Confederacy Prevented Removal of the Emblem of the Confederacy.

Newport, Ky., Oct. 8.—Excited Daughters of the Confederacy formed a blockade in Carnegie Hall today and successfully resisted the efforts of Janitor Wm. Boyd, to tear down an immense confederate flag on the stage. Boyd retreated in good order. Secretary Silva. In the meantime the state convention proceeded and the flag still flies.

Pittsburg—Burglars blew the safe in the P. W. ticket office in Allegheny this morning and got about $500.

Glens Falls, N. Y.—Geo. Borgeson who was knocked down by a soldier Monday died today.

Detroit—Senator Mason, of Illinois, ex-senator Wm. Chandler and W. C. P. Breckenridge of Kentucky, are here among others to attend the inter-state municipal coal strike conference.

Mount Carmel, Pa.—Several non-union men were badly beaten by strikers today as they were walking over the mountain path to a mine.

POLICE
Were Powerless Before The Mob.

Militia Will Probably Be Called Out.

MEN WHO TRIED TO RUN THE NEW ORLEANS CARS

WERE KIDNAPED BY STRIKERS

Coaches Wrecked With Bricks and Stones and Some Employees Were Roughly Handled.

New Orleans, Oct. 8.—At 11:30 o'clock today a mob attacked and overturned a police patrol wagon filled with wounded non-union men who were being taken to the hospitals. Several policemen and a newspaper reporter, Robert E. Lee Edwards, were badly hurt. In the fracas the reporter's hand was torn off. A non-union man was found on the sidewalk in front of union headquarters this morning badly beaten up. He died soon afterwards in the charity hospital. Special dispatches bring the news that 700 non-union men who left Chicago yesterday will arrive here some time tonight. More trouble is expected then.

New Orleans, Oct. 8.—In anticipation of a second attempt to start street cars this morning an immense crowd of strikers and sympathizers gathered in Canal street determined to prevent the moving of cars, despite the presence of a large force of police. The first car started out was a mail car and no effort was made to molest it. Thirty non-union men arrived from St. Louis last night.

The street railway's company attempted to take out a car at 10 o'clock this morning, from the Canal street barn. It had gone but a few yards when it was attacked. The police, who were smarting under editorial comment in all the newspapers because they allowed the men to tear up cars yesterday, opened fire. About 100 shots were fired. Several policemen were badly wounded, also a number in the crowd. Peter Johnson and Alfred Clark of Chicago, who came here with about 30 men to work for the street car company, were both badly beaten. Their wounds may prove fatal. Morton Ferguson a striker, was shot in the arm. Conductor Kennedy, a non-union man on the car was shot in the hand. Stones and sticks were used. The cars were then returned to the barn. Another attempt to take out a car will be made later in the day. Only three men have complied with the Mayor's request for volunteer services of 1000 citizen police. The militia will undoubtedly be called out.

New Orleans, Oct. 8.—The railway company tried to obey the order of the Mayor to run passenger cars yesterday as wired in these dispatches to the Advocate, but with almost the entire force of city police concentrated at the scene of action the four cars started got no further than five squares from the Canal street barn, and the attempt was abandoned for the day.

In a disturbance at Tonti street, where a car was held up, F. H. Schwenn of Chicago, a non-union conductor was hit on the head with a brick and badly hurt, and he, with three others, were badly taken possession of by the strikers. Two were kept prisoners in union headquarters all afternoon, carefully guarded, and not even members of the union were allowed to talk to them. The other two are detained tonight at some other point which is not known except to the strikers.

A fifth non-union man, who had been an inspector for the company, became frightened and when his captors came to his neck and dragged him from the car he was greeted with cheers by the strikers. He is to be married tonight. One policeman was hit on the foot by a brick and another of the non-union men, who is a prisoner, was roughly handled, but not badly hurt. The cars were badly damaged by bricks and stones and all the glass was broken. Four cars were started out with non-union motormen and conductors, each carrying 11 policemen, while a hundred policemen were massed in the vicinity, but when the first car reached Tonti street the strikers and their sympathizers made a rush, got possession, and won the day with ease. The police made no show of resisting the assault.

George W. Centerfield, a St. Louis man, started to resist the onslaught by using his controller as a weapon, but the police in the car took it away from him. J. H. Eldson, of a detective agency in St. Louis, came here with 20 men and was in charge of the last car, and displayed much coolness in the face of the apathy of the police and the onslaught of the strikers. He deliberately climbed on top of the car and tied the remnants of the trolley rope. When he came down the mob was too much for him, however, and as he showed signs of resistance the police took him from the car and conveyed him to the Central station in the patrol wagon, escorted by ten mounted officers.

The company informed Mayor Capdevielle that the police protection was inadequate, and at 4 o'clock the Mayor issued a call for 1,000 volunteer citizen police. The responses to the call have been few, and it looks now as though the militia will be called out.

RUSSEL SAGE
Aged Financier Seriously Ill Last Night, but He is Now Out of Danger.

New York, Oct. 8.—Russell Sage is seriously ill at Cedarcroft, his summer home. Dr. John P. Munn, the veteran financier's family physician, arrived yesterday afternoon at the Long Island home from New York whence he had been hurriedly summoned by Dr. Schmuck of Far Rockaway. He found the aged patient suffering from a cold and high fever with symptoms which threatened complications.

Mr. Sage was stricken suddenly with severe chills, resulting from a cold. In a short time a high fever developed. Dr. Schmuck was called and found his condition so serious that he decided to remain with him the greater part of the night.

The continuance of the high fever led Dr. Schmuck to say:

"Mr. Sage is seriously ill. The attack has come upon him so suddenly that we are very anxious. Chills which in a younger man would have occasioned little apprehension have developed his case into a high fever. We cannot yet determine just what the outcome of this fever will be. We hope for the best, but it must not be forgotten that Mr. Sage is advanced in years, and his general physical condition is far from being robust."

It is now said that Mr. Sage is out of danger.

PANIC
Caused by this Chicago Fire this Morning—The Loss Estimated at Quarter Million.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—The warehouse and salesrooms of the Pittsburg Plate Glass company at Wabash avenue and Peck Court were burned early this morning, causing a $250,000 loss. The fire caused a panic in the flats adjoining the glass stores but every one got out in safety.

FAST MAIL
Was Wrecked this Morning Near Galva, Ill., the Whole Train Rolling Down the Bank.

Galva, Ill., Oct. 8.—The C. B. & O. fast mail No. 8 was wrecked two miles east of here by running into a coal car early this morning and the train was derailed. Fireman Sands of Galeburg was killed and Engineer C. B. Johnson was probably fatally injured. The entire train was rolled down the embankment a dozen feet and the cars were badly splintered. No one else was injured.

Sixty Thousand Men In Line Today.

President Carried Out Of White House

TO SEE THE PARADE OF THE OLD VETERANS

BIDDING FOR NEXT REUNION

Is Quite Lively With Odds Favoring The Pacific Coast City at This Time.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The procession of G. A. R. veterans began moving at 10 o'clock today. While the ranks were not so well filled as formerly there was no lack of enthusiasm and the veterans made a fine appearance. There were 60,000 men in line. President Roosevelt reviewed the G. A. R. parade from his carriage which was driven from the temporary White House down Pennsylvania avenue to Peace monument and back again. He started at 11:15, being carried out of the house in a wicker hospital chair. He was made comfortable in the carriage resting his back on a pneumatic cushion. His injured leg was propped up on a foot stool. He enjoyed the outing very much and was enthusiastically cheered.

'FRISCO IN THE LEAD
Washington, Oct. 8.—There is a merry contest on for the honor of entertaining the next encampment of the G. A. R. with San Francisco, Atlantic City Saratago and Pittsburg in the running. At present the odds seem to favor the Pacific Coast metropolis.

BIGGAR-BENNETT CASE

Jury Instructed by the Judge to Sift It to the Bottom--Claim of Actress to be Contested by Executors.

New York, Oct. 8.—Supreme Court Justice J. Franklin Fort, at the opening of the October term of the Monmouth County Court at Freehold, N. J., delivered a vigorous charge to the grand jury on the Biggar-Bennett alleged conspiracy case, after detailing the circumstances relating to the death of Henry M. Bennett leaving a will, the provision made it for Laura Biggar, and the facts regarding her claim to widowhood, and the alleged birth of a child, followed by the proceedings to establish the woman's claim, the subsequent withdrawal of the proceedings, and the arrest of the chief actors in the proceedings for conspiracy. Judge Fort directed the jury to make a thorough investigation of the case and to return indictments, not only against Hendricks and Stanton, but Laura Biggar and Dr. Connolly, the physician who had sworn to his attendance immediately after the alleged birth of the child.

Judge Fort stated that there would be no compromise of the criminal proceedings, no matter what arrangement might be attempted to be made looking toward an arrangement of the matter out of Court. Indictments must be found if the evidence to be presented to the grand jury warrant it. The crime was a most sensational one, involving, as it did, an attempt to defraud the other heirs of the Bennett estate in order that Laura Biggar might secure the whole estate. Judge Fort further stated that he did not believe that Laura Biggar was responsible for concocting the scheme. He further expressed the opinion that notwithstanding her attempt to have

INNOCENT MEN

Served Years in Prison for a Crime Committed Years Ago by Another, Who Has Finally Made Confession.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 8.—Twenty years ago Thomas Hanley and Luke Kelly, of Pringle Hill, were sent to jail for nine years on the charge of highway robbery and felonious wounding. They were innocent, but not until now have they been able to prove it. Yesterday afternoon the guilty man appeared, conscience stricken, having walked 25 miles to find Hanley. He is E. W. Tonery, of 843 West Market street, Scranton, a farm laborer. He said:

"For years my conscience has been troubled, and at times I thought I would kill myself. I remembered Hanley's name and knew where he lived, but I did not know anything about Kelly, and I wanted to go to them and tell them and then do anything they wished. They ought to send me to jail. They ought to string me up. I deserve it, but I have been punished,

"GANG!"

Choice Epithet of the Elite Organ

That Supports a Ticket Fixed Up Wholly by a Select Few by Methods in Which the People Had No Voice.

The Advocate howls "gang" at the American Tribune, and dares us to tell how the candidates on the Republican ticket were nominated. That is an easy one. They were nominated at a convention of delegates "selected" by the Republicans of the various wards, precincts, and townships at "caucuses" held for that purpose. There was nothing underhanded in their nomination. Each man nominated had a majority of all the votes cast in the convention. They were not nominated at a primary election where but a small per centage of the vote was out, and that dominated by the gang, as were the Democratic candidates, and from which a great part of the Democratic vote stayed away because they could not agree to support the Democratic county ticket this fall.—American Tribune.

It was the elite American Tribune that began the "gang" howling business. "Gang" is that paper's choice and standard epithet, and when it began howling "gang" a few weeks ago, the Advocate simply retaliated by calling attention to the manner in which the Republican county ticket was fixed up and saddled on the voters by a select and exclusive few.

Now let us recall the exact, undisputed facts pertaining to the last Republican county convention and how the ticket was selected.

The Republican "caucuses" to "select delegates" to the county convention were held Tuesday evening, May 20, 1902. No record or poll list was made of the number of voters that participated in these little evening caucuses, but it is known that at many of them there were only enough present to "select" themselves as such delegates.

Then these "selected" delegates met in county convention on Saturday,

May 24, on which occasion they selected delegates to the Republican State Convention and then adjourned and went home.

It was a month later before they assembled again, being on Saturday, June 28, thus affording a whole month for "seeing" the "selected" delegates. And this whole month's time gave an unheard-of opportunity for the select few to manipulate the delegates and get in their work so quietly that the mass of voters could have no possible knowledge of what was being done.

On the second day, when the "selected" delegates re-assembled, they met in the forenoon of the day, but without taking action they adjourned until the afternoon.

More manipulation followed to complete the slate ticket and the plan for putting it through in the afternoon.

Then, when the final session of the "selected" delegates was held in the afternoon, the slate composing the whole county ticket was rushed through on shorter time than any similar action had ever before been witnessed in Licking county. The select few did business with neatness and dispatch, and the average voter who had no voice whatever in naming the ticket, had no knowledge even of how it was done.

If the Democrats nominated a ticket in such a manner, there would be no end or limit to "gang" howling and the use of choice epithets on the part of the elite American-Tribune. "Domination by the gang" would be the text of that paper on all occasions.

Furthermore, if the Democratic party of Licking county were to resort to such methods of manipulation and dictation in nominating a county ticket, the mass of Democratic voters would spurn it and refuse to vote for a single candidate upon such a ticket. Now, a word as to the A.T.'s false and misleading statement about the number of votes cast at the last Democratic primaries. At the Democratic primary election held last June, there were 4,369 votes polled, while the average of the highest totals at the primaries for the last five years is 4,425.

The turnout, therefore, at the last Democratic primaries was a good average in point of numbers. The voice of the party was expressed by over 4,200 voters, who participated. On the other hand it cannot be shown that 300 voters participated in the evening "caucuses" that "selected" the delegates to the Republican convention that were so neatly manipulated by the select few, to whom the A.T. would apply the epithet of "GANG" in hand bill type if they were Democrats.

Can the coal trust crush out union labor? is the question of the hour. Not if union labor votes right at the coming election—not if union labor votes against keeping the one party in power that has been the friend of the trusts, built them up and aided them in every way to become what they are in this country.

What trust is the friend of labor today? Which of them is a "good trust" as Mark Hanna has contended? Are the high prices for meat, coal and other necessities evidence that "trusts are the friend of labor" as so many Republican leaders have all along been preaching?

The money of the trusts to the extent of millions of dollars has been used to defeat the Democratic party—the friend of labor. These millions of dollars have kept in power the Republican party—the friend of trusts.

A radical change of front is that which has suddenly overtaken those Republican newspapers which have been reliable trust organs all these years. But all the anti-trust professions they are now making will promptly cease after election.

BIGELOW AND BAKER

Will Speak in Newark on Monday Evening, October 20.

These two Democratic orators will address the people in Newark on Monday evening, October 20. The Rev. Mr. Bigelow is the Democratic candidate for Secretary of State, and Hon. Charles Baker is one of the ablest speakers in Ohio. They deserve a crowded house when they come, for what they say will greatly interest two people in these times of trust greed and trust rule. Our people should see that the occasion is made a political gathering of far-reaching effect.

A MATTER OF FAVOR.

Gotrox Didn't Feel Philanthropic, but Johnny Shinn Did.
Silas Gotrox, the famous banker, felt as gloomy as the rain that was beating against his office window, and when Silas Gotrox felt gloomy all the small world of servants around him was a perfect world of gloom. For Silas was a man of undoubted influence in more ways than one, and an off day with him meant an unpleasant day for all connected with the firm.

It was therefore with a calm and subdued air that the office boy ushered into Mr. Gotrox's private room a tall, lanky, wild eyed man, who had sent in his card to the banker with the inscription "an important business."

"Be seated," said Mr. Gotrox coldly when the office boy had departed, "and kindly state in as few words as possible what your errand is."

But the wild eyed man remained standing, with a smile of joy on his face.

"Ah," he cried, "it is! Indeed it is my old friend, Silas Gotrox!"

"Gotrox is my name," replied the banker, "but I fear you have the advantage of me in the friendship line."

"What!" exclaimed the other in a tone of reproach. "Do you not remember little Johnny Shinn?"

Mr. Gotrox scratched his chin thoughtfully.

"Johnny Shinn, Johnny Shinn," he repeated. "The name does sound familiar to me."

"Of course it does," said the other, beaming at him. "Why, we used to make mud pies together, we used to play hooky from school together in our boyhood days at old Squedunk. Surely you remember me?"

Silas Gotrox regarded him suspiciously.

"So you are Johnny Shinn, are you?" he asked.

"Indeed I am, and no other."

There was a moment's pause, and then Mr. Gotrox said in a steady tone: "Johnny, I suppose you have come here today to ask some favor of me?"

The wild eyed one drew himself up proudly.

"Silas," said he, "you wrong me. As I passed your office, quite by chance, it occurred to me that here at last was an opportunity for me to repay you for the many acts of kindness you showed me when we were boys together. Ask a favor of you, Silas, I am here to do you a favor. For $5,000 I will sell you the rights to the greatest invention ever devised by man. By its means gold can be obtained from a sponge, silver from the shavings of a pencil, platinum from a cake of soap, aluminium from—"

"What about brass?" inquired Mr. Gotrox sternly, as the office detective escorted Johnny Shinn to the door.—New York Times.

Not a Good Likeness.
The little daughter of the house watched the minister, who was making a visit, very closely, and finally sat down beside him and began to draw on her slate.

"What are you doing?" asked the clergyman.

"I'm making your picture," said the child.

The minister sat very still, and the child worked away very earnestly. Then she stopped and compared her work with the original and shook her head.

"I don't like it much," she said. "Tain't a great deal like you, I guess. I'll put a tail to it and call it a dog."—Duluth Tribune.

HOSTER'S HALF AND HALF.

BRAIN WORK.

Its Effect Upon the Body and the Kind of Food It Demands.

The changes of tissue in the brain that take place during study and thought are very important, and very rapid. It has been estimated that three tons of brain work cause as great an exhaustion of the forces of the body as an entire day of manual labor.

This waste must be replaced by abundant food, but its selection requires careful consideration and often self denial, for many things which the physical worker can eat with perfect impunity are slow poison to the brain worker, who exercises the brain at the expense of the body and rarely gives the latter sufficient exercise to counteract the mental strain and keep it in condition to resist disease. Bear in mind that, while the waste of the body is much more rapid, the deprivation of physical exercise encourages torpidity of the voluntary functions and renders them sluggish in eliminating these wastes; therefore it is of the utmost importance that the tasks imposed upon them should be light.

Brain workers require the most concentrated and easily digested foods. They should eat fresh beef and mutton, fish, eggs—cooked in many forms, but never hard-boiled or fried—oysters and crisp salads, lettuce, chicory, tomatoes, watercress, etc., with mayonnaise or French dressing. They should begin the day with fruit and make it form the principal part of luncheon and be very sparing in their use of cereals, (eschewing entirely "white bread" and oatmeal). Their ideal luncheon, which must be light if they continue to work in the afternoon, is a glass of milk or cup of hot chocolate or better still, a glass of fresh buttermilk, with two or three Graham wafers or a bit of toast and some fruit, an apple, figs or an orange.

THE MILKY WAY.

A System Which Gives Us a Vague Idea of the Eternity of Space.

The Milky Way, the grandest feature of the "firmament" which bends above us, the hazy path which so majestically bands the whole fabric of the skies together, is now known to be composed of a grand aggregation of at least 18,000,000 stars, each as large as our larger than that which makes vegetable and animal life on earth possible. One is apt when allowing the mind to revert to the contemplation of these misty and indistinct astronomical subjects to measure their magnitude or attempt to measure it by making terrestrial comparisons.

It is obvious, however, upon more mature reflection that such comparisons are worse than "ridiculous." The bulk of our sun exceeds that of the earth 1,300,000 times, being 600 times greater than that of the bulk of his whole train of planets taken collectively. This being the case, what basis can we use for calculating the magnitude of 18,000,000 suns, each as I have said before, probably larger than that which gives us heat and light?

The infinite number of suns which, taken together, make up the Milky Way are not set at a uniform distance from our earth or even from our sun. In fact, they appear to work altogether independently of either this sun, our sphere or our "glorious orb or day." The majority of them are planted at a distance too remote to be even imperfectly measured or understood. Some of them are so near (2) that light which travels at the rate of 185,000 miles per second, would cross the distance between us and them in the period of about an even ten years. Others, however, are so remote that it would take a full thousand years for their light to reach us.

But Not With the Life.
He had fished up the stream and down the stream and used flies, paste, worms and every other form of bait that the ingenuity of man could devise, but without result, and as he wended his way homeward at the close of the day his temper was high and his fish basket empty. Still, there was no occasion to grieve the latter fact to the whole world, so when he met a friend by the way the following dialogue ensued:

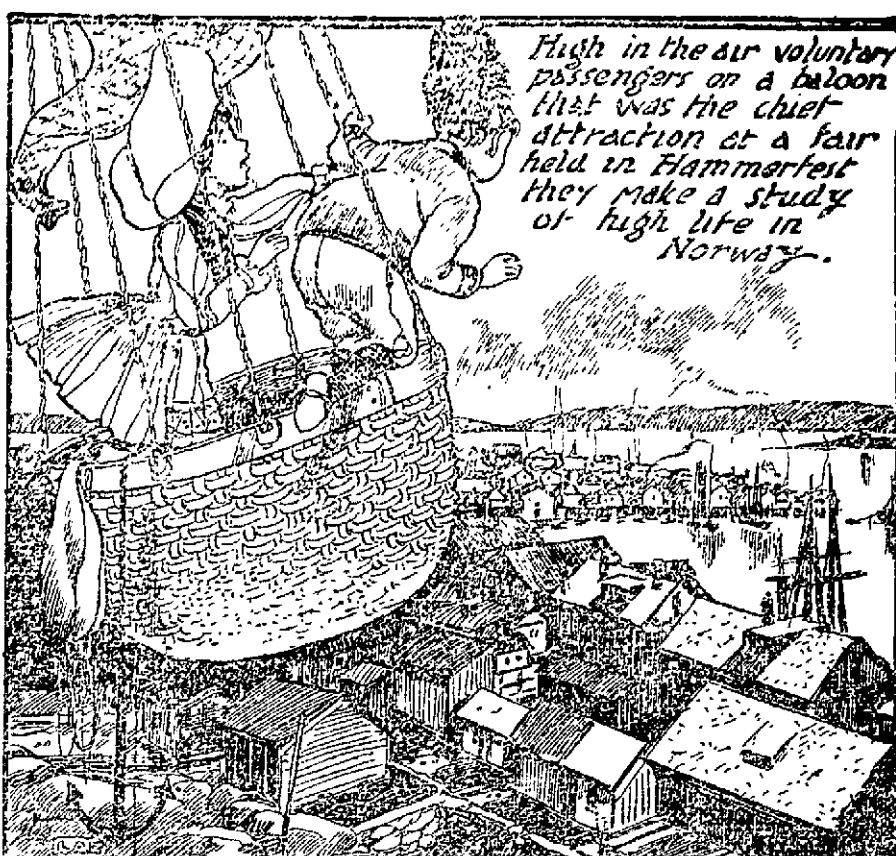

"Been fishing?"
"Yes."
"Had a good day's sport?"
"Yes."
"What did you catch?"

FULL TEXT

Of the Platform Adopted at the Democratic State Convention.

In state convention assembled, we, the Democrats of Ohio, hereby acknowledge and declare our continued allegiance to the Democratic party of the nation and on national issues reaffirm and endorse the principles laid down in its last national platform adopted at Kansas City, and which was fully and ably represented in the presidential campaign of 1900 by William Jennings Bryan. Regarding those principles as opposed to imperialism and colonialism, as opposed to government by injunction, as opposed to trusts and trust fostering tariffs, as opposed to financial monopoly and as opposed to all other legalized monopolies and privileges, we condemn every effort to repudiate or ignore them.

In state and municipal affairs we pledge our party to a faithful application of those Democratic principles, to the end that the burdens of taxation may be equalized and home rule and local self-government be established and preserved.

REPUBLICANS ARRANGED.

Under the long continued control of the Republican party in this state, monopoly has been fostered and protected; the farmer and the small home owners have been burdened with excessive taxes that the beneficiaries and favorites of that party might be permitted to escape their just share of the public burdens; our public institutions have been wastefully and inefficiently managed and in them scandals and cruel wrongs have been practiced upon the defenseless wards of the state; the farmers and small shippers continue to suffer from unjust discrimination at the hands of unregulated monopoly; the fine system of municipal government has been wrecked and the credit of cities destroyed, thereby producing a spirit of insecurity and unrest in all public affairs. The people can no longer trust the administration of their affairs to a party thus recklessly devoted to interests adverse to the public welfare. As a more specific statement of our principles upon these and other public questions we declare:

TAXABLE PROPERTY.

1. That all taxable property should be appraised by assessing boards which should be in session for at least a part of each year and whose proceedings and deliberations should be open to the public; that power be given to employ a representative to present the interests of the public in hearings before these boards and that in making assessments all property should be appraised at not less than its saleable value.

CLASSIFICATION.

2. That the present laws for assessing the property of steam railroads and other public service corporations should be so changed as to compel the assessment of those properties at not less than their saleable value as going concerns and to prevent their evasion of just taxation.

FREE PASSES.

3. That the denial of the right of free speech and peaceable persuasion by public officers or employees should be adequate ground for their removal from office.

FREE PASSES.

4. That all public service corporations should be required by law to make sworn public reports and that the power of visitation and examination over such corporations should be given to the proper auditing officers to the end that the true value of the privileges had by such corporations may be made plain to the people.

MILLIONS OF PEOPLE

are made wretched every year or perhaps have their lives shortened by feeling that they have heart disease. They have pain in that region and their own diagnosis is sufficient to convince them of this malady. As a matter of truth there is seldom any pain from heart disease.

THE TRUTH IS INDIGESTION.

The stomach lying just under the heart, is distended to a painful degree by gases, and crowding toward the heart, perhaps, makes the pain seem to be in that organ. Go to your druggist and get a bottle of

CHANGE OF MIND.

I declined to insert your advertisement of Walther's Peptonized Port last year, because I then thought it might not be promotive of the cause of temperance, but find it is a very valuable medicine, myself and wife having been greatly benefited by it, and I take great pleasure in saying it.

AMUSEMENTS.

The standard attraction "Uncle Josh Spruceby" which comes to the Auditorium tonight, is a comedy of unusual merit. No doubt it will be remembered from a previous visit here when a splendid impression was made. And from the lavish press notices it is receiving this season it is better than ever. Only cities and larger towns are being played this season and the production is being presented on a large scale. New and handsome scenery is used and the great saw mill scene is given with more realism than ever. The company is composed of 25 people and is one of unusual merit. The musical features include a splendid orchestra of en soloists. A unique street parade was given at 3:30 p. m. This is the first season of this big and successful organization at popular prices, 10, 20 and 30 cents.

TRAVEL LECTURES.

The Duquesne Observer says of Prof. Powers' great travel lectures: Two of the most highly pleased and satisfied crowds that ever filed out of Bank hall were those which departed from the building Friday afternoon and evening, at the conclusion of the illustrated lectures of Prof. C. Oliver Powers.

Prof. Powers has a magnetic appearance, a splendid voice, good descriptive abilities and a thorough knowledge of elocution. Added to these qualifications of the successful lecturer, he had a most interesting and instructive talk on the subject "Where the Other Half Lives," and a charming array of stereopticon views, showing scenes in a trip to and through the wealthy portions and tenement sections of Boston and New York. With these things he carried his auditors by storm, and if he should return to Duquesne it is hardly likely that a hall could be found in the town that would contain the crowd that would apply for admittance.

VICIOUS HORSE

Attacks Little Boy and Throws Him to the Ground—Boy Escapes With Slight Injuries.

St. Joe Road, Oct. 8.—The little son of Mrs. Ruggles, of Columbus, had a terrible experience with a vicious horse several days ago. The little fellow was playing in the yard of Mrs. Miles, when he succeeded in opening the gate leading to the barn yard. He closed the gate and entered the barn yard where a horse was running loose. The animal as soon as he noticed the boy, attacked him and threw him to the ground, but the child was rescued before any serious injury had been inflicted by the savage brute.

The rainy weather has retarded the wheat sowing to some extent, only a few having finished seeding before the wet spell set in.

WEDDING

Of Miss Elizabeth Pfeffer and Mr. Clem Alspach Tuesday Night, October 7.

Miss Elizabeth Pfeffer, daughter of the late John Pfeffer, and Mr. Clem Alspach, both of this city, were married on Tuesday evening. The ceremony took place at the parsonage of the First Presbyterian church and was performed by the pastor, Rev. L. S. Boyce, at 6:30 o'clock. The happy couple left on the 7:15 p. m. train for a bridal trip to Chicago, and will be gone a week or ten days. Upon their return they will immediately go to housekeeping at 159 North Fifth street. They have the best wishes of a host of friends for a long life of happiness and prosperity.

FLINT RIDGE

Having a Boom in Anticipation of New Electric Road—Several Farms Leased—Personal.

Little Clay Lick, Oct. 8.—The farmers of this vicinity are about done with their corn cutting and seeding. There is a good deal of complaining about the green condition of the corn. Farmers think the cool weather in June perhaps, has caused its late ripening with the rainy weather lately.

The rains however, were much needed, as water in many places was getting scarce in cisterns and for stock.

Our M. E. conference has closed and a large number of the preachers are sent back to their old places. T. T. Buell comes back to the Brownsville circuit. Our next preaching service is next Sunday, October 12, at 2:00, at Little Clay Lick. We were somewhat disappointed in our presiding elder. We rather expected L. C. Sparks, but Newark First church was favored and he goes there.

We are still waiting and anxious to hear something more concerning our electric road something definite. "Hope deferred makes the heart sick," and certainly it is the case in this particular. Several sales of farms have taken place on the ridge and several have leased their farms for coal, fireclay, etc.

The ridge is having a boom, perhaps in anticipation of the new road. David Smith is building a house and expects to move in the near future, and Mel and Clell Loughman are building a new house. Report says Milton Gordon will build also. His old house was burned a few weeks ago. The people remember that he and his family had the smallpox last winter, and he felt he could not disinfect and make it safe to live in again, so he burned it.

We must not forget the grocery and provision store. The people find it quite handy in an emergency.

Mr. Chapman of Gratiot, furnishes the store and Melvin Loughman attends to the buying and selling. They buy country produce and pay as much as the stores in Gratiot or Browns ville.

J. H. Dusthimer and wife and little son Ray of Franklin township, spent Sunday with the former's sister, Mrs. Coe at Hillside.

Mrs. Myers, residing at the old Henslee homestead is improving in health. Emma Figgins an old lady who has lived alone for a long time, is quite sick. The neighbors living near her are attending to her wants. It is thought she cannot get well, as she is very old.

J. K. Poundstone has a sale October 8, he having moved to Newark some time ago. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Handley live at the home, where Mr. Poundstone formerly lived, near the Mt. Carmel church.

Our district school is being taught by Mr. Frank Vermillion. The attendance is not very large as yet.

We saw in last Friday's Advocate something from headquarters at Washington concerning the mail boxes and we are wondering where the order came from, for the new boxes by the first of October. The patrons of Route No. 4 intend to await further orders.

PRISONERS, ESCAPED JAIL.

McConnellsville, O., Oct. 8.—When the sheriff entered the jail yesterday he found that two prisoners were gone. They are Harry Cunningham, who is charged with breaking the seal of a box car and robbing it, and Arthur Johnson, charged with attempted criminal assault. The prisoners broke the lock on the jail door during the night and made good their escape. A posse was organized to hunt the escaped jail birds.

GRANVILLE.

Electric Road Franchise Presented to Council—Hearing Later—Proceedings of the Meeting.

Granville, O., Oct. 8.—The village council met in regular session on Tuesday evening, and when the clerk called the roll the following members responded: Messrs. Burton Case, E. S. Hulshizer, J. B. Jones, T. W. Jones, and William Chrysler, with President J. M. Swartz in the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the clerk, and approved.

The committee on streets reported that some grading had been done on certain streets and also that a number of gutters had been cleaned. The committee also reported that it had ordered 10,000 paving brick from Zanesville for the purpose of constructing the new street crossings, and that the brick had already been shipped.

Regarding the lights of the village Mr. Chrysler of the committee on lights reported that he had been informed by the superintendent of the electric light plant that hereafter the lamps would be lighted earlier in the evening.

Mr. Swartz said that the station agent of the T. & O. C. railroad had informed him that the company would be unable to clean the drains under the railroad until the village drain approaching the railroad had been cleaned. It was decided that the matter be looked into by the street committee and President Swartz was continued on the committee.

W. J. Pond, secretary of the water works and electric light plants, submitted his report for the month ending Oct. 6, 1902, which is as follows:

Water Works—Cash on hand $802.89; bills approved and paid $82.81; balance on hand, $720.08.

Electric Light—Cash on hand $112.84; bills approved and paid $1.72; balance on hand $72.12.

The matter of raising the sidewalks of the village was discussed at considerable length, but no definite action was taken.

The clerk read a letter from Mr. H. H. Tuttle member of the Council, in which he tendered his resignation, giving as a reason for such action that his continued absence from the village would not permit of him attending the meetings. His resignation was accepted.

Attorney James R. Fitzgibbon of Newark, representing the Newark & Granville street railway was present and stated that he had prepared a new franchise which the company was desirous of obtaining from Granville, permitting it to operate its cars in Granville for a period of twenty-five years. He asked that this franchise be read to the council without taking any definite action on it, and that it be referred to a committee or to a committee of the whole council and that a time be appointed when this committee could meet and see whether or not they could agree on a franchise. He thought that it was about time some action was taken in the matter, and that a movement should be started whereby the council and the company could come to an understanding.

The clerk then read the franchise with the provisions of which the citizens of Granville are already familiar, and upon motion the matter was referred to a committee of the whole council, which will meet in the council chamber on Friday evening of this week to consider the matter.

The board of education met in regular session on Monday evening with T. F. Wright, Prof. W. H. Stockbarger, Dr. E. P. Sork, John Geach and Mrs. Watkins present, with Mr. Stockbarger the president of the board, in the chair. Aside from the allowing of a number of bills only routine business was transacted.

PROF. CHENG

Who Speaks in Newark Thursday Night Addresses Students of O. W. U.—Coal Shortage.

Delaware, Oct. 8.—Professor W. C. Cheng of Peking university, who is on his way home from Christiania, Norway, where he attended the World's Christian Federation as a delegate, addressed the students of Ohio Wesleyan university yesterday. He will speak at Taylor Hall in Newark on Thursday evening.

Professor Cheng graduated from the university where he is now employed in 1896, is but 25 years of age, and speaks English in a manner that would do credit to an Ohio professor. He was an interpreter with the United States army during the siege of Peking.

The Columbus, Delaware and Marion Electric railway company is the first victim of the coal shortage. The company has been compelled to rely on the electric light company of this city for its power, not having coal enough to run its own power house at Stratford.

Clyde Long an eight year old boy, was stealing a ride on a wood wagon when the driver suddenly pulled up his team. The leg of the Long boy was caught between the track of the wagon and the wheel, and the latter had to be taken off before the boy could be extricated. The calf of the leg was laid bare, exposing the tendons, and it is feared that the boy will be a cripple for life.

Seizes Mrs. Delia Gorey who Falls Upon a Hot Stove—Her Death Occurred Later.

Pataskala, Oct. 8.—Mrs. Delia Gorey a widow, 75 years old, was stricken with paralysis, yesterday at her home about two miles north of Pataskala and as the attack came upon her Mrs. Gorey fell upon a hot stove but was rescued before she was seriously burned. Later in the day Mrs. Gorey was attacked by a second stroke of paralysis and last night she died. The deceased leaves several children, some of whom live in or around Newark. The funeral will take place Thursday at 10 o'clock and burial will be made at St. Joseph's cemetery.

A LIGHT IN THE WINDOW.

The British Medical Institute, Located at 100 West Main street, Flat 2, Avalon Flats, Will Give Free Services For Three Months to All Invalids Who Call Before November 18.

Fort living, yielding to the despotic demands of modern society and close application to hard mental and manual labor, are several causes which are wrecking the constitutions of thousands of Americans every year.

Eighty per cent of those afflicted are enduring the pangs of mental misery which unfit them for the duties of life. These people are despondent, depressed, discouraged, troubled with insomnia, chronic constipation, indigestion, and other ailments, with them the vigor of youth is a thing of the past, many of them have paid large amounts of money in vain for a cure. The British Medical Institute has a light in the window for all who are suffering from these ailments, and a regular course of treatment will restore them to health and vigor. The Institute is located at 100 West Main street, Flat 2, Avalon Flats, and will give free services for three months to all invalids who call before November 18. The Institute is a place where the most modern and scientific methods of treatment are employed, and where the patients are treated with the utmost care and attention. THERE HAD BEEN A CHANGE

Topography Didn't Look Just Familiar, and He Inquired.

When I got within five miles of where I thought Deep Valley, Ida., ought to be, I met a man and a mule on the trail and asked if I was going in the right direction.

"Can't say you are," replied the stranger.

"You know the place, don't you?" I asked.

"I did know it."

"And you know Bear mountain, close by?"

"I did know it."

"Why do you say 'did'?" I queried.

"You don't mean that Deep Valley or Bear mountain have run away, do you?"

"Oh, no, no! I just mean that there has been a change over there."

"What sort of a change?"

"Well, Bear mountain has slid down and filled up Deep Valley, and if you are going over there to look for Hank Thompson you'll want a sled and a hundred feet of rope and a lot of other things."

THE COMET

MAY BE SEEN IN NEWARK BY NAKED EYE

Here Are the Directions Which Will Enable One to Find the Visitor.

The new Perrine comet recently discovered by Prof. Perrine, of the Lick observatory, may be seen any night in the skies with the aid of a common telescope or field glass.

Prof. S. L. Beeny located it Tuesday evening by the aid of his marine glass, but it is now bright enough to be seen with the unaided vision. It is moving rapidly toward the west and in a few weeks will be out of sight.

Here are the directions for finding it: About 8:30 o'clock the constellation Cygnus is almost in the zenith, that is overhead. Almost any one knows the great cross in this constellation, the bright star at the head of which is one of the second magnitude and is nearest Cassiopeia's chair. Drawing a line through the three stars forward the upright of the cross, the new comet will be found tonight north-east of the bright star Cygnus, the one conspicuous star at the upper end of the cross.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

A Remedy Which Has Revolutionized the Treatment of Stomach Troubles.

The remedy is not heralded as a wonderful discovery nor yet a secret patent medicine, neither is it claimed to cure anything except dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach troubles with which nine of ten suffer.

The remedy is in the form of pleasant tasting tablets or lozengers, containing vegetable and fruit essences, pure aseptic pepsin (government test) golden seal and diastase. The tablets are sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Many interesting experiments to test the digestive power of Stuart's tablets show that one grain of the active principle contained in them is sufficient to thoroughly digest 3,000 grains of raw meat, eggs and other whole-some food.

Stuart's Tablets do not act upon the bowels like after dinner pills and cheap cathartics, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines without having any effect whatever in digesting food or curing indigestion.

If the stomach can be rested and assisted in the work of digestion it will very soon recover its normal vigor, as no organ is so much abused and overworked as the stomach.

This is the secret, if there is any secret, of the remarkable success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, a remedy practically unknown a few years ago and now the most widely known of any treatment for stomach weakness.

This success has been secured entirely upon its merits as a digestive pure and simple because there can be no stomach trouble if the food is properly digested.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act entirely on the food eaten, digesting it completely, so that it can be assimilated into blood, nerve and tissue. They cure dyspepsia, water brash, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive power which weak stomachs lack and unless that lack is supplied it is useless to attempt to cure by the use of "tonics," "pills" and cathartics which have absolutely no digestive power.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be found at all drug stores and the regular use of one or two of them after meals, will demonstrate their merit better than any other argument.

HEALTH FOR WOMEN

A Physical Culture Course
In Five Lessons

By James J. Corbett

FIFTH LESSON

Mr. Corbett Tells About the Two Great Tonics, Air and Water—How to Bathe Properly and What to Do Afterward—The Proper Diet For Thin and Stout Women.

ATURE has two great tonics—air and water. When a person takes exercise, he is working his lungs like a pair of bellows. They are bound to pump in air. For that reason he ought to take his exercise in the open air as much as possible so that the deep breaths he is bound to draw in will be of pure, fresh ozone. That is one way of washing his blood.

Washing the Blood.

The second way of washing the blood, so to speak, is by drinking pure water and sweating it out of your system. Every one in these days of Turkish baths knows that perspiring is good for the health. But there is no Turkish bath, however well ventilated, that is as good for a person as nature's sweating system, using the muscles of the body in natural, pleasant exercise outdoors.

This is why an athlete getting ready for some big effort always sets up training headquarters somewhere in the country. He wants a place to run and work in the pure air. But the most important thing after warming up and covering the body with perspiration is to get the perspiration wiped off the skin. This moisture is rank with the poisons of the blood.

How to Take a Bath.

If the pores are left open and the sweat not wiped off, it will go back in the blood. You will get a chill and have a squeamish, shuddering feeling like a person with malaria. For this reason I want to give a little special information about baths. A great deal depends on how and when you take them. The bath after heavy exercise should be a warm soap bath to wash the perspiration away. You can give yourself a soapy scrub in warm water very quickly. Don't use hot water—that will take your strength away from you—and don't loaf over it, because as soon as you are thoroughly scrubbed you want to follow it with a cold shower or spray.

The Cold Plunge.

The ordinary spray can be attached to any faucet, and it gives the tonic to the bath. The great bath for nervous people is the cold bath. You can't get it too cold. You want the tub full for this, and in taking it remember that this isn't really a bath, but a plunge.

sage with the bare hand after the bath, so she will get the double effects of the electric shock and the magnetism of massage.

The thin woman wants to remember that massage takes the flesh off, and she can pat herself dry with towels and take a good slapping instead of a rubbing.

I have yet to see the person who got a bad effect from the cold plunge. I recommend this bath directly after the morning exercise before breakfast, and if a person is not able to sleep I advise the exercise and cold bath before going to bed. One thing is certain, the cold plunge will stop night sweats, to which nervous persons are subject and which are frightfully weakening.

No Hot Baths.

A hot bath, I should say, as a general rule, should never be taken. Of course I know doctors recommend them occasionally for special purposes, but that is another matter. The hot bath softens one up, while cold water is a tonic to the skin.

Take a woman who steams her face and washes it in hot towels to improve her complexion, or whatever it is she does it for, and she will have neuralgia as sure as fate, and, besides that, sooner or later she will have a flabby skin. The cold water keeps the skin tight on the face and preserves the young, fresh appearance.

What to Eat.

Now about things to eat. Athletes do not eat so very differently from other people even when training. It is a pretty safe general statement that every one eats too much. I never eat meat but once a day in summer and when training. Meat once a day is enough all the year round. I take for my breakfast fruit, two medium boiled eggs, toast or muffins and coffee. Sometimes I have a cereal with cream.

The stout person wants to take plenty of fruit, especially oranges or grapes; no cereal or cream; dry toast without butter, with perhaps a little russet of bacon for a relish—just a morsel—and black coffee or tea without cream or sugar.

For the Thin Person.

The thin person wants the fruit also, but a thin woman needs cereals, with cream and buttered toast or muffins. For lunch when training I usually take a plate of soup with bread, a glass of milk with egg beaten up in it, which is a fine strengthener; rice, sago or tapioca pudding. The stout person should be content with a tongue or ham sandwich, lemonade or Russian tea.

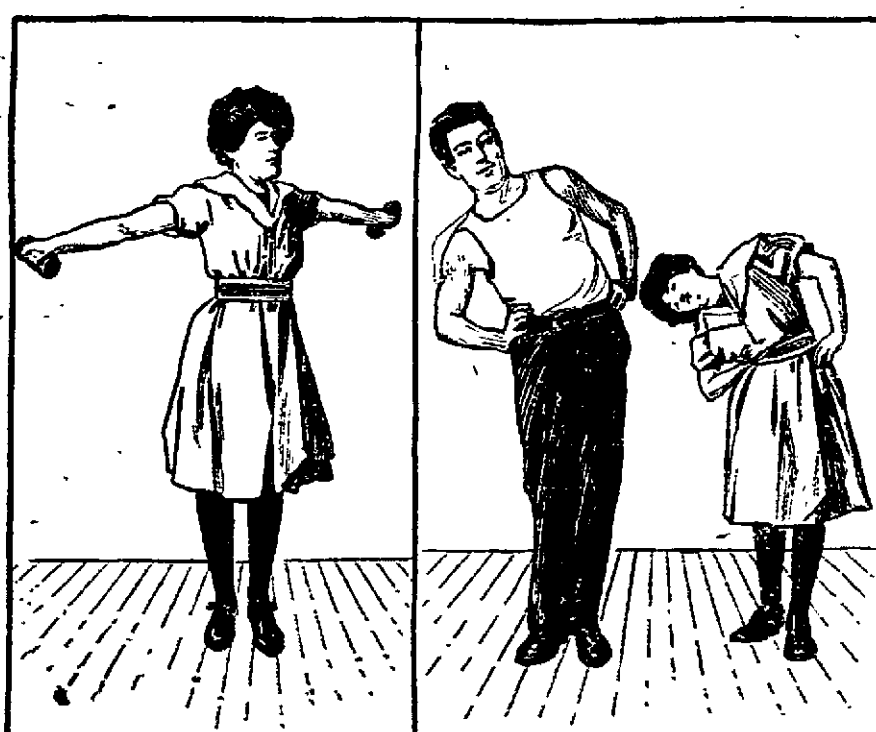

For dinner I recommend the slice of a juicy roast, plenty of good vegetables, carrots, beans, peas, corn, beets—all the vegetables have iron and salts in them in the right way for us to get them into our system—a nice salad, a very small piece of cheese with a toasted cracker, a glass of wine if you like and a small cup of coffee.

An Important "Don't."

No pastry; no elaborate made dishes that the stomach will have to spend hours reducing back to its component parts.

And, last, DON'T sit down to the table to eat when you are tired.

For Chest, Bust and Hips.

"This will develop the chest and make the bust firm."

"This movement will reduce large hips."

The aim of this plunge is to give the system a shock. The cold shock hits the nerve centers and acts like electricity. Especially in the winter, when you can get the water very cold, this stinging bath in the morning is a great awakener.

You can't stay in the water long. You get the shock and jump out on the mat and take your rubbing. This is splendid treatment for the nerves, because it relieves the nerve centers of the blood that rushes to the surface, making you tingle all over.

Tepid Baths For the Weak.

If the body doesn't respond by glowing and you feel chilly after this tub, you can take the bath tepid for awhile until you get used to it. If a woman is very weak, it is a good thing to have a strong person give her a wash-

Rest after your bath, dress leisurely and go to the table without trouble. Happy faces around a table, good company, if it's only yourself and the boy that waits on you, tell best of all friends who will tell you the good word for the day—then digestion waits on appetite.—New York Evening World.

Swarms of Butterflies.

One of the most beautiful sights in the world is the annual migration of butterflies across the isthmus of Panama. Toward the end of June a few scattered specimens are discovered flitting up to sea, and as the days go by the number increases until about July 14 or 15 the sky is occasionally almost obscured by myriads of these frail insects.

WINTER FASHION HINTS.

Smart Costumes In One Color—Green and Black Combinations.

The old fashioned notion of the light blouse with the dark coat and skirt is only permissible for purely practical purposes. Even then it is better to have some sort of connection between the waist and the skirt. For instance, if you have a dark blue Russian blouse coat and skirt it is better taste to wear under it a waist of some blue material or white material figured in blue.

The craze this autumn among smart women is to dress entirely in one color from headgear down. This can be carried out particularly well in the browns and dark reds.

Red hats, red dresses and red costumes of all sorts are very stylish.

SCHOOL FROCK.

Gowns of red veiling are made up over glaze silk and liberty satins of a darker or lighter shade in order to give a changeable effect.

A touch of green is both smart and pretty on an all black costume. One of the most recent Parisian importations is a black velvet princess dress, whose jet ornaments are mingled with grass green embroidery.

The child's frock in the illustration is very useful for school and everyday wear. The material is rough goods of an old rose shade. The waist is laid in clusters of three tucks, and the fullness is confined into a band of white silk worked with black French knots. Bands of this also trim the skirt and the wide collar of old rose tuckered silk.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

VELVET POPULAR.

The New Metallic Weaves—Hats of Rough Felt.

All kinds of lace still retain their popularity, particularly Irish points and guipures.

Velvets will be worn as much as last season. The metallic velvets are the newest and are particularly effective in black and gray. Velvet hats will be somewhat supplanted by those of rough felt, but these will be trimmed and even faced with velvet. Burnt orange is very smart, especially when combined with white or pearl gray. There is a most becoming shape in felt known as the Marie Stuart. This has a low, broad crown, and the brim falls into a round point in front, showing the hair perfectly. It then rises into very much arched sides and fits close to the hair in the back.

Many smart hats are made of zibeline, especially in the dull red shades, and the hat is then trimmed with poppies in all shades of velvet.

The illustration shows a carriage cloak of putty colored cloth. It has the wide sleeves now so fashionable and a V shaped yoke and high collar of fur. The smart hat is of the same color of felt, trimmed with orange velvet and a black feather. JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE C. O. D. MAN

He Relates Some of His Adventures by the Wayside

[Copyright, 1902, by C. B. Lewis]

If you want to find human nature in the rough, you must take to the highways," said the C. O. D. man as he was asked to continue his adventures. "Now and then in my journeys up and down and across I have met people whom I could remember with pleasure, but my experience is that nine men out of ten are only a few steps above the hog. I could relate a hundred instances in corroboration, but two or three will suffice.

"One night as I was sleeping under a haystack on a farm in Connecticut I awoke to discover that the farmhouse was on fire. The roof had caught around the kitchen chimney, and the people had not been aroused. I made for the house at once, aroused the family, found and put up a ladder, and but for my efforts the house would have been destroyed. I had my hair singed and my hands blistered, and when the fire was extinguished at last the old farmer wanted to know how I happened to be on hand. I told him, and after a little thought he said:

"'Waal, you must be thirsty, and I'll have the wife get you a drink of milk.' 'He called to her to fill a pitcher, but followed her into the house, and as I was washing my hands at the kitchen door I heard him say:

"'Hanner, be sure to skim the milk before you give it to him. He's a tramp and not used to cream!'

"I politely declined the staminal milk when it was brought out, telling the farmer that I didn't want to deprive his pigs of their breakfast, and as I started off he said:

"'You and lodgings in my haystack, and that's worth a quarter, but being as you put the fire out I'm willing to call it square.'

"At another time, in Massachusetts," continued the C. O. D. man, "I came along to a farmhouse with a horse pond just below it. A little girl of seven or eight was sailing chips on the pond and fell in just as I got sight of her. The water was deep enough to drown her, and that would have been her fate had I not pulled her out. I carried her up to the house, choking and gasping, and helped the mother restore her. The father came in from plowing just as I was ready to go, and, having heard my story, he replied:

"'Waal, that's all right, but Bertie had a cent in her pocket this morning, and I'd like to know if it's there yet!'

"The cent was there, and to this day that farmer is puzzled over my conduct in refusing the piece of bread and butter he told his wife to prepare for me as a fitting reward. Let me give you a third instance. I was in the butter making district of New York state and had gone to roost under a tree in a field when a thunderstorm came up and a bolt of lightning struck a farmer's barn and set it on fire. I ran for the barn and opened the doors and turned twenty-one cows out before any one came from the house. The barn burned to the ground, and while we stood looking at the blaze the farmer edged up to me and said:

"'That was purty slick of you to save my cows, but two of 'em got into the garden and have eat up a dozen heads of cabbage. Who's to pay for them cabbages. I want to know?'

"It has always been a difficult thing," continued the C. O. D. man, with a smile, "to make certain people understand the difference between a dilapidated gentleman and a tramp. This has brought me into trouble with country constables quite often. The average constable looks upon a tramp as fair game to make fees out of. He runs him in on the chance of his being sent up, and he likes to put on the handcuffs and make out that he has a desperate character in custody. One afternoon last year as I was sitting by the roadside in Pennsylvania the irrepressible constable turned up and yelled at me:

"'Now, then, what are you doing here?'

"'Resting,' I replied.

"'But you have no business to rest.'

"'I beg to differ with you.'

"'You are a tramp.'

"'We differ again.'

"'And you are under arrest. Come on.'

"I asked for his warrant and he took me by the collar. Three seconds later he heard something drop, and he drove away, with a bloody nose. I got help. He soon returned with another constable, and I took off my coat and flaked them both. While they were off hunting for more help and shotgun I walked into town and sought out a lawyer and stated my case. He happened to be down on the village justice, and when six armed men finally landed me in court the lawyer was there. He made him stand up before he got through. I was not only discharged with an apology, but two of the constables paid me $5 each to let them off. They had no legal right whatever to arrest me without a warrant, and neither was I a tramp.

"I don't believe I ever walked ten miles along a highway without being accosted and insulted by some smart Alec of a farmer's son. I have met professional tramps who told me the same thing. If you ever find a tramp carrying a knife or a gun or a slung-shot, it is that he may protect himself from farmers' sons and hired men who think to show off by thrashing him. I have given many such chaps a surprise party. They have jumped out of wagons and come running across fields to tackle me, and I have left them sleeping on the grass or in the dust.

One day as I was hoofing it along an Ohio turnpike I was overtaken by a party in a carriage. There were three young fellows and three girls bound on an excursion of some sort, and before they came up I heard talk of how they would jump me over the fence. The vehicle stopped, and the three young men piled out and sailed into me. It was a golden opportunity to make heroes of themselves, but there was a screw loose somewhere. I peeled off my coat, backed into a fence corner, and I had those chaps crying 'enough' in less than five minutes. I don't know how they settled it with the girls, but the carriage turned back, and the excursion was off.

"A year ago in western New York I met a farmer and his son driving on a highway, and their wagon was stopped to ask me if I had seen a stray horse. When I had replied, the father said:

"'Look here, tramp, my son Bill is aching to lick somebody or something, and if you'll give him a fight I'll give you 25 shillings.'

"Bill was a husky fellow of twenty-three, and without waiting for my answer he jumped down and yanked off his coat and made a pass at me. I let him think he was the whole bakery for two or three minutes, and then I reached his jaw, and he laid down and snored. I expected a row with the father, but he laughed till the tears came to his eyes and got down and shook hands with me and gave me a dollar and said:

"'By thunder, but you must board with me a whole month, and I won't charge you a cent. Bill has licked the schoolmaster, the hired man, five tramps and a patent churn man, and he's got to think he runs the whole county. We meet you, and he jumps down to black your eyes and break your nose, and you just woff, biff, bang, and William lays down to take a nap. Lordy, Lordy, but when he wakes up and I tell him he's a licked man he'll settle down and hoe more corn than any five hired men.'

A Bridegroom's Ears

[Original.]

In the good old days when New York was called New Amsterdam there lived near Bowling Green a rich Dutchman, Gerrit Ten Broek, whose daughter Annaek was the apple of his eye. Annaek was seventeen, and her father thought it high time that he should arrange a marriage for her, for in those days girls were married much younger than now and had very little to say in the choice of a husband.

Ten Broek was engaged in the fur business with one Ten Eyck, Ten Eyck buying furs in Albany while Ten Broek sold in New York. The two Tens were not only partners in business, but bosom friends. One day Ten Broek wrote his partner:

Annaek is now old enough to be married. What has become of your son Peter? I remember him as a little boy, and he promised to be a fine looking man, except that his ears, which were very large, stuck out singularly from his head. His mother was trying to alter their position. I trust she succeeded. However, this has nothing to do with what I have in mind. As I said Annaek is old enough to be married. What do you say to uniting our business for another generation at last by marrying your son to my daughter?

To this Ten Eyck replied:

Your plan of marrying my son to your daughter is a very good one. The only trouble in the way is the defect you mention. Peter is very sensitive about it, and I fear I shall not be able to persuade him to marry any one. However, I will see what I can do in the matter.

After much coaxing Peter was won over to the plan. A betrothal was made by letter, for ships sailed infrequently between New Amsterdam and Albany in those days, and the journey was too troublesome to be taken when it could be avoided. At least this was the reason given by the parents of the contracting parties. The real reason was it was feared if Annaek after seeing her betrothed should have time to act before the wedding she would refuse to be married. Annaek was broken hearted over the matter, though her father could not find out whether it was the deformity that troubled her or that she had a lover of whom he knew nothing.

However, he paid no attention to his daughter's repugnance to the match, and it was arranged between him and Ten Eyck that Peter should come down to New Amsterdam on the sloop Katrina, leaving Albany on the 5th of October, 1686, for the purpose of being married. Every preparation was made for the wedding—the parlor swept clean, the dining room and kitchen (they were one) scrubbed and no end of cakes made. At 11 o'clock in the morning of Oct. 7 a young man appeared at the front door, gave a loud rap and when admitted announced himself as Peter Ten Eyck.

When Gerrit Ten Broek saw his enormous ears, nearly the size of a donkey's, and how they stuck out on each side, flapping when their owner walked, his heart misgave him. How could he inflict such a deformity upon his daughter? His neighbors would be forever laughing at him, in their sleeves if not openly. Nevertheless a Dutchman of those days never gave up a purpose. Gerrit had no thought of receding from his plan, but a natural tenderness for his only child induced him to comfort her.

"We will not hasten matters, my dear," he said. "Tomorrow will be time enough for the wedding, or, if you like, next week. Meanwhile you will become accustomed."

"If I must marry him," said Annaek, "let it be at once."

"What—as soon as he has arrived?" "Yes. I am ready now."

"Very well, my child, since you wish it."

It was a strange wedding procession that walked up what is now Broadway to the church. The ears of the groom flapped in the wind, and the townspeople crowded the wedding party to get a view of him, not scrupling to vent their mirth in loud guffaws. In the church the dominie had a hard time to keep the people from unseemly behavior and hurried through the service so rapidly that few heard the words, and if the couple had been Hans and Mary instead of Peter and Annaek no one would have known the difference. When the twain were pronounced man and wife and they had turned and faced the people to leave the church, the groom put his hands to his ears and, to the surprise of every one, pulled them off.

For a time there was a silence, after which came at intervals explosions of laughter as the phlegmatic Dutchmen one after another got it into their heads that the man had worn false ears. Meanwhile the bride could start down the aisle, the groom grinning from ear to ear, the bride smiling contentedly on his arm.

At the door Gerrit Ten Broek came running up to them to ask what it all meant, but was stopped by a stranger who appeared on the scene with ears somewhat larger than the usual size, though not especially noticeable. He announced himself as Peter Ten Eyck.

"And who are you?" asked Gerrit of the groom.

"Midshipman Jack Somerset of his majesty's ship Terrible. I have loved your daughter since I came into port a week ago, and, hearing that you wanted a son-in-law with donkey ears, concluded to accommodate you."

Now, Gerrit Ten Broek had been very much troubled about his son-in-law's deformity, and Peter Ten Eyck had a ladglove in Albany. The consequence was that the wedding party went back to the house and, in the wedding feast, all well entertained. When the Terrible sailed for England, Jack Somerset took his bride with him, and so became in time one of the proudest social women in England.

FAREWELL

RECEPTION GIVEN AT THE FIRST METHODIST CHURCH.

Rev. Mr. Johnson and Wife Presented With Watch and Silver by Members of the Church.

The parlors of the First Methodist church, corner Church and Fourth streets, were crowded Tuesday evening by members of the church and congregation, and others, the occasion being in the nature of a farewell reception to Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Johnson, who left for their new home in Gallipolis Wednesday.

The evening was passed in social intercourse and speaking farewells and godspeed to the popular pastor of the church for the past several years, and his faithful helpmate, who had endeared herself to all in the woman's departments of the churches activity, by her geniality and enthusiastic faithfulness to her manifold duties.

The evening's informal program was opened by Mr. L. M. Phillips, as moderator, who called the assembly to order.

Mrs. Cora Laird and Miss Eva Mossbrooke sang a duet, after which Rev. L. S. Boyce of the First Presbyterian church, led in prayer.

Mrs. M. D. Hartshorn, one of the oldest members of the church, read a history of the church, which was anecdotal and intensely interesting. Among other things she told of how many of the members, objected to installing a new organ in the new church after moving into it from the old, and contrasted this feeling with that one of natural pride over the present fine new pipe organ and remodeled church auditorium.

Rev. L. C. Sparks then came forward and addressed his remarks to Rev. Johnson, and in a neat but forcible speech, told him that if he was ever late to a train or missed any of his appointments it should not be the fault of the First M. E. church of Newark. Mr. Sparks thereupon on behalf of the church and congregation, presented the retiring pastor with a handsome gold watch.

Mr. Johnson was completely surprised, but responded in a speech of grateful appreciation.

Mrs. Johnson was presented with a china flower vase and a set of silver knives and forks.

She also expressed her thanks for the kindly feeling that prompted the gift.

All present then joined in singing, "Blest be the tie that binds," and were dismissed by the benediction pronounced by Rev. A. E. Johnson.

SUICIDE

Was Preferable to a Marriage to a
Young Man Whom She Did Not Love.

Upper Sandusky, O., Oct. 8.—The funeral of Miss Cora Riedel, who committed suicide Sunday by taking three ounces of carbolic acid, was very largely attended. It now transpires that the cause of the young lady's rash act was love.

It seems she was being persuaded into a marriage with a wealthy young man of Carey. Miss Riedel's heart, however, was linked to another, and rather than marry one whom she could not love, although wealthy, she resolved to end all.
